

Jean Mouton is currently occupied as a full-time masters student at the University of Johannesburg. He has an active interested in the field of Information Security and his masters study is focused on the field of Critical Information Infrastructure Protection. He completed his undergraduate and honours studies in Information Technology at the University of Johannesburg in 2010 and 2011 respectively.